Customer Photo Guidelines

PHOTOGRAPHS - Ideally, photographs which are provided by the customer should include the following:

- The overall view desired in the finished House Portrait.
- Close-up of front door area, with the storm or screen door open to clearly show front door style and color (unless you particularly desire that the storm or screen door be included in the House Portrait).
- Close-ups of other details that are particularly important to you, such as: decorative exterior lamps, special planters, special windows or window treatment, custom railings, fences or gates, cupola over the garage, special decorations or flags.
- Other features obscured by trees, plants, or shadows in the overall view.

COLORS - Remember that the actual colors in color photographs vary by film type, processing, and lighting. Therefore, in addition to your photos, it is important that you describe colors on the order form in writing.

OLD PHOTO ? If ideal color photographs are not available, a beautiful House Portrait can still be completed if sufficient written detail is provided by the customer.

DETAILS - Please note: The degree of detail possible in your finished painting may be limited due to the size of the house and the overall size of the House Portrait you order.

Quality Guarantee

The original Watercolor House Portrait you commission carries the following guarantee:

- Your painting will be executed personally and exclusively by the artist represented.
- Your painting will reflect the quality of workmanship and archival materials of the samples exhibited.
- Artistic interpretation is part of the charm of a Watercolor House Portrait. Your painting will be reasonably accurate within the limitations of the information you provide. Substantial likeness, not photographic accuracy, is the primary goal of the watercolor artist.

Should the painting delivered not meet the standards and terms specified in this Quality Guarantee, the purchase price (less 20% materials & handling charges) will be refunded upon return of painting to the artist.

REPRODUCTION RIGHTS RESERVED

Reproduction rights are retained by the artist unless such rights are specified, compensated, and assigned by the artist in writing.
